

Dear potential LCC host,

Thank you for your interest in hosting the 10th Language Creation Conference (LCC) in Spring or Summer 2023! The Language Creation Society (LCS) was initially founded to help present and support the LCC, and we still consider it to be our top priority. It's great to communicate via the internet and share our work with each other, but nothing beats face-to-face interaction. Each LCC is held on a Saturday and Sunday, with a Friday evening pre-conference get-together and a celebratory dinner on Saturday night.

It might seem like a large task to host an LCC, but the task can be broken down into what's required to host an LCC, and what's preferred. On the next page of this document is a checklist of items to consider. Use that checklist as a guide when you contact potential venues and prepare your proposal. Items listed with an asterisk (*) are required of any location, additional resources can be provided by the LCS.

When submitting a proposal for our consideration, it's always best to include photos—or provide a website with photos—so that we can get an idea of what the venue looks like, and how it would feel to host an LCC there. The most important factors that are used to evaluate the proposals, are: the suitability of the venue, including A/V recording and live streaming technology, the availability of nearby lodging at various price points, the ease and cost of transportation to the city in which the conference is to be held, and the availability of nearby and inexpensive dining options, including a recommendation for the Saturday night dinner.

Proposals to host LCC10 are due September 6, 2022. To submit your proposal to host LCC10, be sure to include:

A cover letter introducing yourself and your connection to the conlang community as well as an overview of the proposed location (venue, city/town, other local attractions that visitors to your area may enjoy).

Your proposal, which at minimum should: i. address the items indicated in the Host Checklist on the next page; ii. propose dates for the conference (Spring / Summer 2023); iii. Provide a tentative budget (room/equipment rental, any catering during the conference, tentative price per person for the Saturday dinner).

Location description: Provide information about travel to/from the conference location (closest international airport, available transportation between the airport and conference venue, transportation around the city/town); about local accommodations available to attendees (include nearby options at multiple price points); and about any other amenities that set your proposed location apart or make it ideal to host LCC10.

COVID-19 contingency: Because we cannot know what the evolving situation with COVID-19 will be in 2023 while selecting a venue for the conference, we need to have a contingency plan in place. LCC10 will be completely compliant with all local public-health guidelines and regional laws; if these conditions make it difficult or impossible for international travelers to attend, we may need to move the conference to a digital platform (e.g., Zoom/YouTube as was done for the digital LCC in 2021). Please indicate if any of the proposed plans/budget items would be non-refundable in this event or any other pertinent contingencies you would suggest.

If you have any questions, or to submit your proposal, email us at info@conlang.org. Thank you for taking the time to read this, and we look forward to hearing from you!

LCC Host Checklist

Important: All LCCs are live streamed to our international audience as not everyone is able to travel to wherever the conference is being held. Following the success of the digital LCC in 2021, we aim to hold LCC10 as a hybrid in-person/digital conference, allowing both in-person and remote presentations/engagement. The proposed venue must be able to support these technical needs.
